NEWS AND COMMENT.

GIVE us a rest on "Tannerism."

THE legal profession of the United States numbers 60,000 strong.

MRS. GEN. LOGAN is looming up as Commissioner of Pensions to succeed TANNER.

THE Georgia Legislature has just enacted a law making it a misdemeanor to sell cigarettes to minors under 21 years of age.

EX SPEAKER CARLISLE thinks MCKINLY, of Ohio, will be the next Speaker of the House. MCKINLY is of North Carolina stock.

THE Wilmington Star is 22 years old and one of the best newspapers ever published in the State.

THERE are 603,000 members of the order of the Independent Order of Odd Fellows; 652,787 including the Rebekah degree.

IT seems that HARRISON'S administration is destined to go down to posterity as the administration-afraid of-its-mouth.

REMEMBER the Grand Centennial Celebration in Fayetteville, November 20th, 21st and 22nd, 1889. Everybody invited.

THE National Democrat, a new paper established at Washington, D. C., is an able and valuable exponent of true Democracy.

THERE was a big tumble in the "sugar trust" stock on Wall street a few days ago, and it is to be hoped that the whole thing will go to pieces.

A GRAND re-union of ex-Confederate veterans at Raleigh, during the Fair week, will prove one of the attractive features of the State Fair this year.

THE Pension office in Washington is reported badly tangled. Those in position to know say the existing state of affairs is a disgrace to any administration.

REPUBLICANS now claim that BROWER'S chances for renomination are gone. But BROWER will come out on top, the "Greensboro Ring" to the contrary notwithstanding.

THE Statesville Landmark is our authority for the statement that "Gen. D. H. HILL was a Presbyterian, and held the faith exactly as it was handed down by JOHN CALVIN."

SENATOR VORHEES, otherwise known as the "Tall Sycamore of the Wabash," says President HARRISON has only to keep on as he has begun to insure the election of a Democrat in 1892.

BANISHING a man for committing rape is a novel punishment to be inflicted by a justice of the peace. Yet such is the foolish action of a Marion county magistrate, according to the published reports.

THE patent granting business, like the pension, is on the increase. The annual report of the Commissioner of Patents just completed shows that the number of applications for patents received during the year ending June 30 was 30,740, and that 21,518 were granted.

THE OBSERVER is delighted to learn that THAD. R. MANNING, Esq., of the Gold Leaf, and one of the most genial and chivalrous "Knights of the quill," has reconsidered and will remain in North Carolina and at the helm of his paper, which is, by the way, one of the best papers published.

GOV. LEE, of Virginia, is quoted as saythe two races "are getting farther apart every year, and there seems to be no hope of ever reestablishing cordial and kindly relations between them. This is chiefly the fault of the colored people, and they will be the chief sufferers by it in Virginia."

"THE negroes in Florida are mad. Gen. McKee has been appointed to office, and he is the very man that in a speech soon after the Boodler was elected, said that 'the time had come when the good of the Republican party demanded that they should take back seats and let the white leadership in the party prevail.'"

The negroes in Florida have nothing to be mad about. The only difference between Republicanism there and in North Carolina is that the Radical leaders in Florida "tell the truth and shame the devil," while here the "Blarney Stone" is in constant use, and soft promises abound—but the offices and the leadership remain with the whites all the same.

"YOUR bull and my ox, or my bull and your ox." There was a "race war" on a small scale in Illinois the other day; and, as is usual with the weaker party everywhere, the Republican negrophiler's "colored brother" went to the wall. Strange to say, nobody has felt called upon to take a turn at the crank of the "outrage mill" on account of this specimen of "Sucker" lawlessness, while, if the same thing had happened down here, the Illinois newspapers would have enjoyed one solid month's howling over the "shot gun policy," Southern "cat-throats," etc., etc., ad nauseam. The negro will find it very much the same this whole country over, and, in fact, wherever the Anglo-Saxon is in the ascendency:—the Caucasian is the dominant race.

Preventing Consumption.

Medical Record.]

The New York City Board of Health has issued the following rules to be observed for the prevention of the spread of consumption: Pulmonary tuberculosis (consumption) is directly communicated from one person to another. The germ of the disease exists in the expectoration of the persons afflicted with it. The following extract from the report of the pathologists of the Health Department explains the means by which the disease may be transmitted: "Tuberculosis is commonly produced in the lungs (which are the organs most frequently affected) by breathing air in which living germs are suspended as dust. The material which is coughed up, sometimes in large quantities, by persons suffering from consumption, contains these germs, often in enormous numbers. • • This material when expectorated frequently lodges in places where it dries, as on the streets, floors, carpets, handkerchiefs, etc. After drying in one way or another, it is very apt to become pulverized and float in the air as dust." By observing the following rules the danger of catching the disease will be reduced to a minimum: 1. Do not permit persons suspected of having consumption to spit on the floor or on cloths, unless the latter be immediately burned. The spittle of persons suspected of having consumption should be caught in earthern or glass dishes containing the following solution: Corrosive sublimate, 1 part; water 1,000 parts. 2. Do not sleep in a room occupied by a person suspected of having consumption. The living-rooms of a consumptive patient should have as little furniture as practicable. Hangings should be especially avoided. The use of carpets, rugs, etc., ought always be avoided. 3. Do not fail to wash thoroughly the eating-utensils of a person suspected of having consumption as soon after eating as possible, using boiling water for the purpose. 4. Do not mingle the unwashed clothing of consumptive patients with similar clothing of other persons. 5. Do not fail to catch the bowel-discharges of consumptive patients, with diarrhœa, in a vessel containing corrosive sublimate, 1 part; water, 1,000 parts. 6. Do not fail to consult the family physician regarding the social relations of persons suffering from suspected consumption. 6. Do not permit mothers suspected of having consumption to nurse their offspring. 8. Household pets (animals or birds) are quite susceptible to tuberculosis; therefore, do not expose them to persons afflicted with consumption; also do not keep, but destroy at once, all household pets suspected of having consumption; otherwise they may give it to human beings. 9. Do not fail to thoroughly cleanse the floors, walls and ceilings of the living and sleeping rooms of persons suffering from consumption at least once in two weeks. Ten thousand copies of the report were ordered printed for distribution.

Your shoulders to the wheel and let's make the Centennial Celebration here in November such a success as will call forth the admiration of succeeding generations one hundred years hence.

Teach True Courtesy.

Teach your daughters good manners. There is no quality that a girl or a woman can possess that recommends her more favorably to the good opinion of others than that of uniform courtesy and good manners. By good manners we mean that affability that springs from gentleness and amiability. The disposition of the child may be formed from the start by the parents who take the trouble to study and understand its peculiarities. The comfort and pleasure that a parent enjoys in the companionship of children who have been properly trained in this respect more than repay the care and trouble expended upon them. How often are parents direlict in their duty in this particular! How many after lives are embittered by the effects of uncurbed temper, irascibility, impatience and inconsiderateness, the direct result of parental neglect in instilling a love of amiability and consideration for others into the hearts of the young!

Good manners must have a solid foundation in kindness and self-control. To be genuine they must be the fruits of sincerity and good feeling, and their exercise must be in conformity with the working of these qualities in the heart. No art can successfully counterfeit true elegance of manners and deportment.

Heroism at Home.

National Presbyterian.]

How useless our lives seem to us sometimes. How we long for an opportunity to perform some great action. We become tired of the routine of home life, and imagine we would be far happier in other scenes. We forget that the world bestows no titles as noble as father, mother, sister or brother. In the sacred precincts of home we have many chances of heroism. The daily acts of self-denial for the good of a loved one, the gentle word of soothing for another's trouble, the care for the sick, may all seem as nothing; yet who can tell the good they may accomplish? Our slightest word may have an influence over another for good or evil. We are daily sowing the seed which will bring forth some sort of harvest. Well will it be for us if the harvest be one we will be proud to garner. If some one in that dear home can look back in after years, and, as he tenderly utters our name, say, "her words and example prepared me for a life of usefulness; to her I owe my present happiness," we may well say: "I have not lived in vain."

$10,000 Found in an Ash Barrel.

A New York rag-picker is reported to have found $10,000 in greenbacks in an ash barrel. This was a rare piece of good luck, but how much more fortunate is the sufferer from consumption who learns that, although the doctors may have pronounced his case hopeless, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery will cure him. Consumption is a scrofulous disease of the lungs. The "Discovery," which is the most potent blood-purifier of the age, strikes right at the root of the evil, and there is no resisting it, if taken in time. In all scrofulous or other blood taints, skin and scalp diseases, old sores and swellings, it is guaranteed to cure, or money paid for it promptly refunded. By druggists.

The Regnes' Banquet.

The annual banquet of the thieves of London is a most brilliant affair. The lord mayor bravely presides, in defiance of the old proverb. To this banquet, runs par excellence, none but thieves fresh from jail are admitted, except the members of St. Giles mission, who give the banquet, and their friends.

This mission has a curious history. It was founded about twelve years ago by a thief nicknamed the "Fiddler," who abandoned his old profession and took to religion for a living. Since that time it has increased in power and usefulness. Every morning when the doors of the four prisons of London are opened to let loose the individuals who have discharged their debt to society, members of the mission come forward and invite the crooks to breakfast. Out of 18,000 of the "set this set free in 1887, 15,200 accepted the invitation.

At the close of the repast a temperance pledge is presented to the guests, which they may sign or not, as they choose. About one-third of the number sign the pledge, and about one-fourth of that third keep it. The mission furnishes money, tools and clothes to the crooks who display sincere intentions to lead better lives, and it finds employment for them, too.

At the last annual banquet about 200 guests sat down to table. There were some queer faces among them, and their costumes defied description. They ate in silence—that is to say, without speaking—but the rattle of their knives and forks during the engagement gave noisy evidence of good appetites. Gradually the din subsided until there were only a few stray rattles left, like the close of a well-sustained infantry fire. Then the speeches began, but the members of the truly silent profession held their tongues.

When the lord mayor left the banquet hall he felt for his watch, and he was happy to find that it was there.

Manchester Cullings.

Reported for the Observer.]

Mrs. H. C. McQueen, nurse and children, of Wilmington, have stopped over on their way from Mt. Vernon Springs. They are now visiting Mrs. J. E. Elliott. Mrs. G. G. Thomas and little boy are also visiting Mrs. Elliott.

To-morrow will usher some Baltimore gentlemen into our midst. They are the stockholders of the Manchester Mills. We hope they will decide to run the factory which has been idle all summer.

Much tugging and energetic interest have gotten the new engine for J. F. Clarke's grist mill from the depot to its destination.

If the factory should blow its whistle and go to work, three times per day we will be within hearing of five enterprises.

The saw at Steinhilper's big mill hummed its first tune, going through a log, Saturday evening. It sent an electric thrill through those interested, and of course we all are.

Mr. J. E. Elliott had a fine mule killed Monday by running away and breaking the wagon tongue, which in some way was thrust into the mule's side, killing it.

The drummers are continually calling on the Clarkes and Mr. Elliott, and fresh goods arriving and bargains to be had, in spite of the effort to prevent country merchants having a chance. BON AMI.

Conscience Money.

Rockingham Rocket.

The following letter, with $115 in currency enclosed, was received a few days ago by Dr. P. W. Stansill, dropped in the postoffice here. We give it literally, except the punctuation:

"The enclosed amounts are justly owing. As neither notes or due bills was given, have been long time forgotten. Until now I could not never do without the funds to refund, and you will please be so kind for to hand it to them. $7.00 for Magor R. T. Long; $10.00 for Col. Walter Steele; $8.00 for R. S. Ledbetter, (minister); $60.00 for Col. John Leak, (deceased); $10.00 for Dr. Whitmil Smallwood, (gone West); $20.00 for the Missionarys, for the Lord is good to me. I moved from Rockingham twenty-five years back."

There was neither date nor signature to the letter; not the least hint as to whence or from whom it came. The letter and the money were enclosed between the backs of an old account book from which the leaves had been removed. None of the old citizens have any idea as to who the sender is.

To Preserve Dead Bodies.

New York Sun.]

There is a man in Denver who has an idea that the country ought to give up the present method of disposing of dead bodies, and adopt one which he suggests. He does not advocate cremation, nor anything else which, so far as is known, appears to have been suggested by any other person. His scheme is to freeze the dead body in water, take the block of ice in which the body has been frozen, and carry it to the north and deposit it on the shores of one of the Arctic seas. He says that he has already made some favorable progress, and that an English syndicate is considering the establishment of an international cemetery on the shores of Baffin's Bay, where he says that future generations may go to find the faces of their ancestors of the nineteenth century as natural as life.

Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley R. R.

Wilmington Star.]

Twenty-three miles of the track of the C. F. & Y. V. Railroad between Wilmington and Fayetteville have been laid. The intermediate trestles between the end of the track and Black River bridge are being constructed, and will not delay the work of laying the rails. A turn-out has been put in near Mott's Cross-roads, seventeen miles from Wilmington, in Pender county. It is proposed to call the place "Currie," in honor of Mr. J. H. Currie, of the firm of Woody & Currie, of this city.

Woman.

O. W. Holmes.]

You talk of the fire of genius. Many a blessed woman who dies unsung and unremembered has given out more of the real vital heat that keeps the life in human souls, without a spark flitting through her humble chimney to tell the world about it, than would set a dozen theories smoking, or a hundred odes simmering in the brains of so many men of genius.

Don't hawk, and blow, and spit, but use Dr. Sage's Catarrh Remedy.

Gordon and Longstreet.

Yesterday, while I was at the capitol, Governor Gordon came in. In his inimitable style he began greeting friends. In the midst of it all another form came in view; the hair was white, the beard of the same hue, the eyes dim, the right arm trembling with age and wounds.

"Why, General," said Gordon, "I am glad to see you."

"And I," replied the other, "am glad to see you."

Gordon and Longstreet!

They were standing, hand clasped in hand. Lee's old war horse and Stonewall Jackson's worthy successor standing heart to heart; the old 1st and 2nd corps once more side by side. No politics there. No Democracy, no Republicanism—only two soldiers. Their voices sounded less distinct than usual—like the soft murmur of summer seas. Tears, too, clouded their vision.

Other eyes grow dim, for those two represented, in the most tragic hour, the Wilderness and Lee's army. Back again came the scene. The light of May 5, 1864, has passed, and from the "darkling woods" came the sharp crack of the skirmisher's rifle, groans, dying prayers. Each army waited for the morrow. Longstreet at Gordonsville, twenty miles away; Hill hard pressed; Ewell only holding his own; 40,000 grays, 100,000 blues; Longstreet not yet up.

What of the morrow?

Down the line of Hill's and Ewell's troops is heard the cry: "Pass word along that Longstreet is here!" From the tangled depths of the Wilderness a mighty shout goes up, even the wounded feebly answering back: "Longstreet is here!" Grand old 1st army corps, brave old Longstreet, we may differ in politics, but Second Manasas is yours, the Wilderness is yours, and, amid the gathering gloom of life's fading years, we dare deal you justice!

Iowa's Wonderful Lake.

The greatest wonder in the State of Iowa, and perhaps in any State, is what is called the "Walled Lake," in Wright county, twelve miles north of the Dubuque and Pacific Railway, and 150 miles west of Dubuque city. This lake is from two to three feet higher than the earth's surface. In some places the wall is ten feet high, fifteen wide at the bottom and five feet wide at the top. The stones used in its construction vary in weight from three tons down to a hundred pounds. There is an abundance of stones in Wright county, but surrounding the lake to the extent of five or ten miles there are none. No one can form an idea as to the means employed to bring them to the spot or who constructed it. Around the entire lake is a belt of wood-land one-half mile in width, composed of oak. With this exception the country is a rolling prairie. The trees must have been planted there at the time of the building of the wall. In the spring of the year 1856 there was a great storm, and the ice on the lake broke the wall in several places, and the farmers in the vicinity were compelled to repair the damages to prevent inundation. The lake occupies a grand surface of 2,800 acres; depth of water as great as twenty-five feet. The water is clear and cool, soil sandy and loamy. It is singular that no one has been able to ascertain where the water comes from or where it goes, yet it is always clear and fresh.

Fortunes in Ancient Times.

Cræsus possessed in landed property a fortune equal to $8,500,000, besides a large sum of money, slaves and furniture, that amounted to a sum equally as large. He used to say that a citizen who had not a fortune sufficient to support an army or a legion did not deserve to be called a rich man.

The philosopher Seneca had a fortune of $13,000,000. Lentulus, the soothsayer, had $18,000,000. Tiberius, at his death, left $118,125,000, which Caligula spent in less than six months.

Cæsar, before he entered upon any office, owned $15,000,000; he purchased the friendship of Curio for $2,500,000, and that of Lucius Paulus for $1,500,000. He gave Servilla, the mother of Brutus, a pearl valued at $200,000.

Appicus expended in debauchery over $1,500,000; and finding, on examination of the state of his affairs, that he had but $200,000 left, poisoned himself, because he considered that sum insufficient for his maintenance. One single dish cost Æsopus $400,000; Caligula spent for one supper $400,000, and Heliogabolus, $100,000. The loss by the burning of the country-house of Scaurus was estimated at $4,250,000.

Female Influence.

There is a mystery about the rich unseen power which a woman possesses over the human heart that cannot be penetrated; and yet it goes on ever working, influencing the great tide of life and stamping itself upon nations. Young women, remember this as you go forth to bless your race. The evils of society can be removed only by the culture of virtue. Let your supreme ambition be to make individual men nobler. All railroads, and steamships, and telegraphs only hasten the ruin of a nation, unless its citizens are virtuous. These who ride, not the conveyance; what the message is, not the wire: these are of supreme importance. Knowledge alone is indeed power; so is steam; and and both, without a wise engineer, are ruin to the possessor.

The Gossip About Egypt.

Sanford Express.]

It is stated that Capt. Henezie and his Philadelphia syndicate are going to make a city of Egypt. The village is to be laid off in town lots, the lots to be built up with handsome dwellings and business houses. A commodious inn is to be built after the style of Egyptian architecture. A branch road from the Seaboard Air-Line at Osgood has been surveyed and will be built to Egypt. The coal is to be worked of course, and several other enterprises are on foot. The Wharton Switch Company, which has leased so much brownstone at Sanford, will also operate in brownstone at Egypt. Indeed Egypt promises to get on a boom.

THURSDAY.....OCTOBER 3, 1889

DEATH OF GENERAL DANIEL H. HILL.

Gen. Hill died at his residence in Charlotte on Tuesday, 24th ult., in the 67th year of his age. A native of South Carolina, he received a military education at West Point, graduating in the class with Gens. Longstreet and A. P. Stewart. He greatly distinguished himself in the Mexican War; and afterwards resigning his position in the United States army, he was professor of mathematics successively at Washington College, Va., and Davidson College, N. C., and, at the outbreak of the Civil War, was Superintendent of the Military Institute at Charlotte.

He was placed by Governor Ellis in command of the camp of instruction at Raleigh, and in May, 1861, was made Colonel of the 1st Regt. N. C. S. T., with orders to proceed to Yorktown, Va., where on the 10th of June, under the orders of Gen. J. B. Magruder, commanding the post, he confronted Gen. Butler's forces at Big Bethel with the 1st Regiment, the Richmond Howitzers and a handful of other troops, driving the enemy back with some loss, and gaining a decisive victory. On the Confederate side Wyatt, of the Edgecombe Guards, was killed.

In September, 1861, Col. Hill was promoted to the rank of Brigadier-General, and rose by successive steps to the position of Lieutenant-General of the Confederate army. Lieutenant-Colonel C. C. Lee became commandant of the regiment, Capt. J. B. Starr, of Co. F. (the LaFayette Light Infantry) being promoted to the Lieut-Colonelcy.

Gen. Hill was one of the best division and corps-commanders who led the Southern forces, and was relied upon by the commander-in-chief as a "fighter" only inferior to Stonewall Jackson and J. E. B. Stuart.

At the close of the war he established at Charlotte a monthly magazine, "The Land We Love," which was discontinued on his election to the Presidency of the University of Arkansas, a position that he held until his resignation in 1885. In 1886 he was made President of the Agricultural and Mechanical College of Georgia; but in the summer of this year ill-health compelled him to relinquish its duties, and he returned to his home in Charlotte to end his useful and eventful life.

Gen. Hill's characteristics were personal bravery and a disregard of danger almost as fatalistic as the wonderful courage of Stonewall Jackson, and devotion to the South. A rigid disciplinarian, he was gifted with a dry, caustic humor, frequently displayed both in the camp and on the battle-field.

On the arrival of the LaFayette and Independent Light Infantry Companies of Fayetteville at the Raleigh camp of instruction, the old army veteran watched their approach in all the bravery of gold lace, triple rows of buttons, epaulettes, plumed hats, etc., and, in his peculiar drawling tone, exclaimed: "Why, yonder come two companies of Brigadier-Generals!" He found soon, however, that gallant soldiers stepped beneath this "fuss and feathers," as long years of subsequent hard service testified.

DEPART IN PEACE.

There now seems to be little doubt that the exodus of the negroes from this State to Arkansas and Mississippi is a movement made in earnest and deliberately organized. It is estimated that by the beginning of the spring of 1890 from 20,000 to 25,000 colored laborers and their families will have departed from the Carolinas.

This confronts us with a very serious question, which it becomes us to meet as wisely as may be, and without passion. We have no right, and we do not believe that the majority of our people have any inclination, to interpose obstacles to the betterment of the negroes' condition; and, if they can receive higher wages, and live more comfortably elsewhere, they are a free people—let them depart in peace. Even prior to the war some emigrated from this section to Liberia, and they were generously assisted by the whites to reach and place themselves in their new abode; others have gone at different periods during the past twenty-five years—but, so far as we have learned, the emigration has been in almost every instance to the colored man's sorrow.

One of the most valuable lessons which the impoverishment consequent upon the war has taught the Southern people has been that they had the ability to work, and with the realization of this ability the willingness to labor has come—slowly, it is true, but it has come.

To speak plainly, so far as the towns are concerned, the thinning out of their negro population would amount to getting rid of an unmitigated nuisance. With the exception of a few old servants of "ante bellum" skill and experience, who are mostly too old and feeble to do as they are still willing to do, our town household "help" is shiftless, idle and unreliable. They are hired to do a certain class of work in cooking, house-cleaning, etc., which the whites generally have to perform in the end.

The withdrawal of so much colored labor from our farms will at first be a more serious matter. In this case it is simply a matter of "counting noses;" and, work as hard as they may, the whites have not available the bone and sinew sufficient to till the fields and plantations, and raise and harvest the crops. The tansition period to a new system of labor will undoubtedly prove a sharp trial, but in our judgment we will come out gainers in the end. The departure of so large a per centage of the colored race from North Carolina will afford us good grounds for hoping to attract hither a desirable class of immigrants—not the down-easter only with his foundry and turning lathe, but the agriculturist of continental Europe, with his thrift, industry and intensive system of tillage. This will enhance the value of our lands; and, giving the property owner an opportunity of disposing of his surplus acres, will gradually replace large, unwieldly and badly-managed plantations with small, neat, well-kept farms.

The gravest evil connected with this contemplated wholesale negro exodus is the fact that the young, strong and vigorous will naturally be the ones to take leave of us, and there will be left the aged, sickly and infirm to become eventually charges upon the parish.

ISSUES OF THE DAY.

The wail of the wool growers and manufacturers is growing painfully alarming. At the recent meeting of the National Wool Manufacturers' Association, held in the city of Boston, a long series of resolutions was unanimously adopted on the subject of tariff reform. The preamble declares that "it is the sense of the people that a revision of the tariff is necessary at the approaching session of Congress, and that the prosperity and development of the woolen manufacturers of the United States require important modifications in wool and the woolen schedules. They solemnly and emphatically protest against making the woolen industry any longer the foot-ball of politics." The resolutions will be submitted to the annual meeting of the National Association to be held in New York this week. This is conclusive evidence that the Democratic party is on the right track in demanding tariff reform.

"It is still the Democratic theory, as it was in 1860, that the decision of the people may be nullified by a minority whenever it pleases."—New York Tribune.

"Unfortunate reference, this," remarks the Richmond Dispatch, and we heartily agree with our contemporary. True history teaches us that in 1860 a large majority of the voters cast their ballots against Lincoln. He was therefore a minority President. The other candidates for President received a million more votes than he did. He went to war in defence of the rights of the minority, not the majority. He stood upon the result as it was declared by the electoral colleges. The Democrats in the next House of Representatives will stand upon the result as it was declared by the election officers—only three majority, and no change in the rules, the diabolical efforts of the Republicans in Congress for the destruction of the Republic and its consolidation into a grand consolidated central despotism to the contrary notwithstanding.

WILKIE COLLINS, ranking among the greatest writers of English fiction of this century, died on the 24th ult. He was born in London in 1824, and was the son of the painter Collins, R. A, an artist of distinction. He was bred to the profession of the law, but turned his attention to literature, and was for a long time associated with Charles Dickens in the publication of "All the Year Round."

His style was terse, incisive and highly dramatic, and his skill and power in the construction of the plots of his novels were remarkable. His chief works are "No Name," "Armadale," "The Woman in White," "Moonstone," "Man and Wife," "The Law and The Lady" and "The New Magdelen," though he was a voluminous writer, and left behind other inferior productions, among them several plays.

Wilkie Collins visited this country a few years since, and made a lecturing tour of some of the principal cities.

Greensboro Cotton Mills.

Daily Workman.]

We are gratified to see the outlook for the Greensboro Cotton Mills so promising. Let everybody help by taking a few shares of stock, and thereby assist in building up Greensboro and your own interests. Build this mill, and others will follow.

The Secretary received an application this morning from a party at Saxapahaw for $400 of stock in the above mills; also another from Mill Point for $100—$2,000 having already been subscribed by parties at the latter place—and still they come. The books will be opened for the first installment next Saturday, and it is important that all who are willing to take stock should do so at once, that the enterprise may be pushed to completion.

[We congratulate our neighbors on the early consummation of this important enterprise; and, when once its success is assured, the community will owe its establishment to no one individual more than to our friend, H. J. Elam, Esq., who, from the very beginning, has written for it, spoken for it, and in every way advocated it with unflagging zeal.—EDS. OBSERVER.]

The Rice Crop.

Wilmington Star.]

Messrs. Dan Talmage's Sons in their report of the rice crop say that it will not exceed that of last year, and many predict a falling away of from 25 to 30 per cent. The product, position and prospects of the crop in North and South Carolina are as follows:

North Carolina — Acreage about the same as last year; yield 15 per cent. larger, but not up to the average of the past decade; quality fine; harvesting on tide-water crop fairly under way; upland not ripe; planters in good financial condition, and will not part with their crops at much if any below present prices.

South Carolina— Acreage slightly under last year; yield slightly larger, but below the average of the past decade; quality prime; harvesting of early plantings progressing under favorable conditions, but not over twenty-five per cent. absolutely safe, balance still in fields; June and uplands scarcely ready; planters in good position to hold, but disposed to meet fair price.

"We Are Coming, Father Abraham."

"Hang out your banners; on the outward walls
The cry is: still they come."

All classes of the people, in every portion of the State, and in other States of the Union, will embrace the opportunity offered by the Centennial Celebration to greet once more, in the evening of his life, the great leader of the Confederate cause. Saturday's issue of the Wilmington Star says:

Arrangements are on foot, but have not yet been completed, to run a special train between Wilmington and Fayetteville every day during the Centennial Celebration which will be held at that place in November next. The train will be run over the Carolina Central and Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railroads, leaving Wilmington at 6.30 o'clock in the morning, connecting with the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Road at Maxton at 9 a. m., and arriving at Fayetteville about 10.30 a. m. Returning, train will leave Fayetteville at 5 o'clock in the afternoon and reach Wilmington about half-past 8 o'clock the same evening—thus giving Wilmington people an opportunity to spend six or seven hours in Fayetteville, see all the sights and return in the evening in time for a good night's rest at their homes. The idea is a capital one, and will undoubtedly meet with popular favor.

The Carolina Central proposes a similar arrangement for Charlotte, the special train to leave that city at six o'clock in the morning and make connection at Maxton at nine o'clock with the train that leaves Wilmington for Fayetteville.

MARSHALS AT THE FAIR.

The Gentlemen Who Will Be On Chief Norris' Staff.

Chief Marshal Herbert E. Norris yesterday made up his list of assistant marshals. The list includes up to the present forty-five men, and they have been chosen, as will be seen, from all sections of North Carolina. The list is not yet quite complete. Some who have been invited have not yet been heard from. The entire staff will consist of about sixty men. So far as he has gone Mr. Norris has made admirable selections, and he will have an efficient and handsome staff. The following are those who have already accepted:

W. R. Tucker, Raleigh; J. R. Williams, Fayetteville; W. H. McKay, Dunn; H. Johnston, Tarboro; W. B. Grimes, Raleigh; J. C. Harris, Wake Forest; Lacy L. Little, Little's Mill's; W. David Brown, Earpsboro; S. A. Salmon, Lillington; Jas. H. Holt, Jr., Burlington; W. Y. Swain, Henderson; W. H. Bain, Raleigh; C. C. Chadbourn, Wilmington; Jno. B. Blake, Smithfield; R. L. Candler, Winston; Eugene E. Thompson, Durham, Robt. E. Copeland, Wilson; Robt. L. Holt, Burlington; F. P. Haywood, Jr., Raleigh; Dr. B. W. Burt, Enno; Henry L. Cook, Fayetteville; D. W. Barbour, Clayton; Dr. H. K. Edgerton, Kenly; Erastus Ballentine, Varina; Sherwood Higgs, Raleigh; A. G. Blanchard, Varina; Thomas Burnes, Massey; T. J. Stephenson, Raleigh; Gaston Battle, Tarboro; J. Bryan Grimes, Grimesland; R. A. P. Cosby, Nashville; Millard Mial, Shotwell; F. R. Gray, Massey; Frank Parker, Halifax; B. F. Williams, Winslow; Oscar Rollins, Enno; W. H. Pully, Roxboro; D. H. Carter, Fairfield; H. J. James, Yadkinville; E. M. Moore, Burgaw; R. H. Hyatt, Bryson City; H. C. Long, Long's P. O.; E. S. Rooke, Garysburg; W. S. Hardison, Washington; T. J. King, Louisburg.

Reported for the Observer.]

After an absence of two weeks, we again make our politest bow and ask the readers of the OBSERVER to please bear with us for a few moments only, and we will endeavor to give them, very briefly, the happenings in and around our city of streams during the past two weeks.

Your "Cor.," in company with Messrs. J. M. Davis, J. S. Smith and Willie Walker, attended the Y. M. C. A. Convention of the 4th district, which convened in the town of Wilson on September 20-22. We will just say to any interested in Y. M. C. A. work, that if you want to have a "nice, fine, large time," just go to one Convention, and if you do not come away very much improved—well, there is no chance for you. Every delegate present had a most glorious time. We were blessed both spiritually and temporally. Spiritually, by six souls being brought to a saving knowledge of Jesus Christ. Temporally, by having the magnificent and hospitable homes of Wilson thrown wide open for our reception. We do not know by whose the hospitality of the Wilsonites is equaled, unless it is old Fayetteville's.

We were glad to see, a few days since, such a full and complete line of general merchandise at such rock bottom prices in the store of Mr. W. D. Adams, one of our most enterprising merchants.

Some unknown miscreant boke into the store of Mr. J. Byrd one night last week. We need a more rigid enforcement of the law, to prevent so much of this theft and burglary.

The Shingle Factory is shipping shingles to the northern markets every few days now, for which they are receiving very fine prices.

Messrs. Geo. Taylor and W. E. Murchison, of Jonesboro, made our little hamlet a flying visit last week.

The Centennial Committees have our congratulations upon the choice of Mr. Julian S. Carr, as Chief Marshal for the occasion. Any thing that Jule Carr does is done well.

How about the Semi-Weekly? Some of our subscribers are anxious for it to start, for they are so much pleased with the Observer of late, that they want to get it twice a week.

How to Build Country Roads.

Concord Standard.]

Every farmer and everybody else is interested in more roads, better roads and cheaper roads. They can be had and must be had. The proper authorities must see to it. They can best learn by seeing to it at the State Fair, to be held in Raleigh N. C., October 14-19, 1889. There will be exhibited practical road-making and terracing, the machine employed doing the work of a hundred men. It will be supervised by Capt. B. P. Williamson, the chairman of the County Commissioners of Wake County, and one of the most practical and conservative men in the State. It is a duty that every County Commissioner in the State owes his people to go and see.

Chatham Notes.

Pittsboro Record.]

A prisoner was brought here to jail a few days ago, and before going to jail he went to the barber shop, and had his hair trimmed, his beard shaved and his moustache dyed.——Mr. Vest Johnson, of this place, has presented us with some fully matured June apples, plucked by him last Sunday, being the second crop this year, and the tree is actually in bloom again!

Let every body hurrah for the Centennial Celebration here November 20, 21 and 22.

Personal Pencilings.

Col. A. H. Leftwich, of Greensboro, visited Fayetteville last week.

Mr. R. W. Brooks, of Red Springs, made business calls in the city Monday.

Glad to have a call from Mr. D. A. McArtan, the clever sheriff of Harnett, Monday.

Mr. Lem Wetmore, of Lincolnton, has been paying a visit to friends and relatives on Haymount.

Mr. Jesse Harris and daughter, of Owensville, Sampson county, were in the city last week, visiting the family of Mr. Mack N. Branch.

Capt. J. W. Fry, of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, has been here this week on official business.

Capt. W. H. Pemberton, of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, spent a day or two in town this week.

Capt. Will Dodson, of Greensboro, who was so painfully hurt at Spout Spring last year, was in the city this week, looking very well.

Mr. M. McD. Williams, of Spout Spring, visited Fayetteville last Monday. He is looking well and declares that no one could be happier.

Mr. T. J. Jones, of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, came in from the south on Monday last.

Mrs. S. Sheetz, of this city, has returned from a visit of two months with her brother, Mr. Bishop, at Washington, D. C.

Mr. and Mrs. Thos. McBryde and family, of Robeson county, were registered at the Overbaugh House this week.

We learn that Mr. Wiley Jordan will go to Maxton to take a position with Mr. C. A. Holland. We wish him abundant success.

Messrs. T. H. Sutton and N. A. Sinclair are attending Robeson county Superior Court this week.

Mr. W. G. Moore, late of the OBSERVER force, has taken a position with Messrs. Young, of the clothing factory.

Mr. J. H. Burgess, of Ramseur, N. C., a staunch friend of the OBSERVER, made us a pleasant call yesterday.

Jas. Moore has gone to Maxton, where he will assist Mr. B. F. McLean in purchasing cotton for his father, Mr. E. F. Moore, of this city.

Mr. Thos. H. Pemberton has been shaking hands with the many friends of his old home, while spending a few days of holiday from business.

Mrs. M. J. Pemberton and Miss Maggie Pemberton have returned from Blowing Rock, at which splendid resort they spend every summer and early fall.

Rev. T. P. Barclay and Dr. J. W. McNeill leave on Monday next to attend the meeting of North Carolina Synod, which convenes in Charlotte on Tuesday, 8th inst.

Maj. P. F. Duffy, of the Wilmington Star, passed through here Tuesday en route to Salem, and will return with his family to Wilmington the latter part of the week.

Their many friends will be glad to welcome back to Fayetteville Mr. and Mrs J. A. Pemberton, Jr., who have been residing at Greensboro for the past year or two.

Mrs. L. C. Linebery's many warm friends are glad to welcome her back to Fayetteville, where she will remain during the fall and winter, making her home with Mrs. A. H. Slocomb, on Dick Street.

Mr. M. E. Dye has returned from his annual fall trip North. He made the journey by sea, and found it very pleasant, despite the fact that in coming back via the Old Dominion Line the tail of a cyclone struck the steamer, and shook up the passengers considerably.

Capt. J. M. Walker, of the Atlantic Coast Line, has returned from his pleasant vacation trip. He reports that he has been to a great many places and seen a great many people, and if there is anybody who aint coming to our Centennial he got around the corner before he got up with him. The crowd here will be simply immense.

The Smithfield Herald of last Saturday has the following to say of two of our citizens:

Mr. Percy Page, brother of Mrs. Ed. S. Abell, and one of Fayetteville's most popular and deserving young men, has been spending several days with relatives and friends in our town.

Our clever friend, J. W. Morris, Esq., came up from Fayetteville Wednesday morning to take charge of the Short Cut and Midland depot until the arrival of Mr. W. L. Radford, the new agent.

A Very Gratifying Sign.

No political "New South" in ours, if you please, but we are rejoiced to note increasing evidences around us daily of a material and industrial "New South."

In the railway and machine shops and foundries, and on the lines of railroad and steamer, are young men at the bench, the forge and the throttle of the engine of the best families and assured social position. Of course there is no reason why they shouldn't be just there, but thirty years ago they wouldn't have been there—that's all. They have convinced themselves that it is far more creditable to eat the bread of honest labor, even though it carries with it hardened hands and a soiled shirt, than to pass the time in "genteel" idleness. They are none certainly the worse for it, nor any the less gentlemen in the home and social circles.

The great difficulty with education and intellectual training in the South prior to the war (and the objection obtains in a less degree still) was the want of electicism in the system—the lack of attention to the calibre and bent of mind of the boy. The high-school routine and the college or university curriculum constituted a broad, clear-cut highway with but one goal after graduation: the adoption of one or the other of the "liberal" professions—and many an excellent mechanic and machinist has starved out his life as a third rate lawyer, an unskilled physician or a desperately poor preacher. We have earned five dollars from our ability to pick up type at the "case" where we have earned one from our ability to construe Livy and Sophocles, or read Racine and Moliere.

Understand that we are not disparaging the advantages of higher education. The promise is almost divine that "knowledge is power," and the Almighty never intended any man to fail of the full fruition of his talents in the field of thought and literary research; but a struggling people and an impoverished country need the development of stalwart bone and sinew as well as brains, and psychological inquiry must languish while the "waste places" rebuild.

Died from His Injuries.

Concerning young Louis Green, who was so badly wounded last August, and afterwards died from his injuries, the following touching notice from the Chester Reporter will be perused with interest by the sympathizing readers of this paper:

Louis Green, the young fireman so severely hurt at Knox's Station August 22nd, died on the afternoon of the 29th. Young.—scarcely 17 years of age—industrious and manly, his case appealed to the sympathies of the people. Though dying among strangers, he was attended to carefully and tenderly by the friends whom he had won by his respectful manner and devotion to his work. The railroad officials did all in their power to minister to his every want. Mr. Scarborough, of the narrow gauge railway shops, accompanied the remains to Fayetteville.

The World's Cotton Supply.

NEW YORK, Sept. 28.—The total visible supply of cotton for the world is 1,070,938 bales, of which 719,938 are American, against 831,872, and 568,572, respectively, last year. Receipts, all interior towns, 96,014; receipts, plantations, 205,066.

Weekly Cotton Report.

The following is the weekly report of the Fayetteville Cotton Market, taken from the office of the Fayetteville Cotton Exchange, forthe week ending Oct. 2nd:

REMARKS.

The market is steady and easy and on the decline while the staple and color continues good. Mills have found the staple very satisfactory in buying from our market. Ports are dull and but few buyers. Indications point to lower price.

HER HEALTH WAS RUINED.

Her Life Was One of Pain, But She is Now Well.

Mrs. Alexander Vaughn, wife of one of the most prominent and extensively known merchants of Prescott, Ark., writes the following letter under date of April 22, 1889:

"I owe the preservation of my life under Providence to Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) For four years my health was wretched, ruined—my life a life of constant pain and misery and torture. Food soured on my stomach, and what I ate to-day I would vomit to-morrow. My sleep at night was broken with the most horrible visions in dreams, so much so that I could not bear to be left alone; chronic diarrhœa, a painful cough that threatened me with consumption; my feet and ankles were twisted out of all proportion, and my limbs swelled more or less. I could not walk except on a level floor, and then with difficulty, and for a while could not get in or out of bed without assistance.

The pressure of a finger on my body would leave its impression, and in short I thought I had dropsy in addition to my other afflictions.

Two doctors treated me faithfully during these four years, but did me no good—the medicines they gave me were as useless as stagnant water. My friends thought I would die, suffering as I was with such a combination of diseases.

In 1887 I discontinued the use of the medicines I had been heretofore taking, and began to take Swift's Specific (S. S. S.) Five bottles of this truly wonderful medicine was what worked the miracle of my complete and permanent recovery."

In Charge.

Mr. D. F. Wemyss, the new Fayetteville postmaster, has taken charge of the office.

Siler City Fair.

Thanks to Mr. Geo. Charlotte, the Secretary, for a complimentay ticket to the Siler City Agricultural Fair, Oct. 23, 24 and 25.

Error.

We inadvertently made a mistake last week in our notice of Mr. N. F. Holmes's call at this office. Reference was intended to be made throughout the article to Bluff instead of Cumberland Mills.

County Board of Education.

The Cumberland County Board of Education meets here next Monday morning at 10 o'clock sharp, in order to finish their work before the magistrates and commissioners meet.

Delayed.

One day last week the pressure of water broke in the coffer-dam placed in the river at the masonry work of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway iron bridge over the Cape Fear, and the necessary repairs will probably cause a delay of several days.

Arranged in Elegant Style

The Postal Telegraph and Commercial Cable Company do things in excellent style, and Mr. Cobb, the popular manager, has displayed great taste in fitting up the office in the Hotel LaFayette building. It is one of the handsomest and most complete we have ever seen.

Knights of David

The "Royal Knights of David," a colored organization, were out on their anniversary parade on Tuesday afternoon, making an imposing display as they marched in handsome regalia to the music of a good band. The order originated at Durham, and has latterly, we learn, increased much in numbers.

Bingham and Davis Cadets.

A Pleasant Evening.

The "German" in Brandt's Hall last Friday night sent all the ladies and gentlemen home delighted with the unusually pleasant hours enjoyed. The dance was led by Mr. Chas. Campbell, au fait in the management of the details of the ball-room floor, and the entertainment was reluctantly brought to a close at a late hour.

Another Reunion.

Capt. J. A. P. Conly, of Lumber Bridge, ex Captain of Co. D., 2n l Regt. N. C. Cavalry, gives notice of a reunion of the officers and members of that company in this city during the Centennial, and appoints Messrs. E. M. Waddill, Jas. Williams and J. W. King a committee to make arrangements for the proper care and reception of their surviving comrades.

Notice from the Great West.

A recent issue of the Cincinnati Commercial Gazette devotes about two columns to a notice of the illustrated hand-book of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, compiled and edited by J. H. Myrover, associate editor of this paper. In that great Western metropolis they are fully alive to the importance of this great line—rapidly assuming proportions second to those of no railway system in the South.

Improvements.

Mr. Thos. S. Lutterloh has moved into his new house at "Rosenvic" on upper Haymount, built on the site of the dwelling destroyed by fire in March last. It is a handsome residence, fitted with all the conveniences of a comfortable home.

The two handsome buildings erected by Mr. F. W. Thornton on Maiden Lane are now about ready for occupancy, and we learn that he will follow with two more to meet the wants of householders.

A "Jumbo."

Mr. T. Jeff Johnson, of the firm of W. L. Manning & Co., Person street, has delighted our gastronomic soul down to its very boot-heels with a mammoth onion measuring 16¼ inches in circumference.

Fine Apples.

Mr. Chas. Watson, south-west Market Square, will accept our thanks for some of the finest up-country apples of the season. Western North Carolina apples can nowhere be surpassed, and railway communication is fast giving them a high place in the markets of the country.

Offices Established.

The Postal Telegraph and Commercial Cable Company had opened the following offices up to Oct. 1st: Aiken and Chesterfield, S. C.; Augusta, Atlanta, Rome and Marietta, Ga.; Gadsden, Altoona, Anniston and Birmingham, Ala. (the last two main); Richmond, Petersburg and Hicksford, Va.; Laurel Hill, Warrenton, Henderson, Oxford, Kittrell's, Franklinton, Raleigh and Fayetteville, N. C.

Tribute to the Dead.

We respectfully suggest that the surviving officers and soldiers of the 1st (Bethel) Regiment of N. C. T., who may be present at the November Centennial Celebration, meet duriug the exercies of the occasion, at the call of the regiment's ranking officer among the visitors, for the purpose of paying a tribute to the memory of the late lamented Lieut. General D. H. Hill, who was Colonel of the regiment at Yorktown, and promoted thence to the office of Brig. adier General.

Home Enterprise Appreciated.

To Mr. McKee Barclay, Manager and Treasurer of the Carolina Engraving and Stereotyping Co., has been awarded the contract for engraving the Centennial Ball invitations and other work, over competitors from New York, Philadelphia and other large cities. We have seen specimens of Mr. Barclay's designing and engraving, and in our judgment they are creditable and artistic. Mr. J. E. Garrett's excellent job-printing establishment prints the invitations.

Alarm of Fire and Quick Work.

At a few minutes to 8 o'clock on Tuesday evening an alarm of fire was given, and the crowd on the streets rushed down toward Liberty Point, where the trouble seemed to be. A lamp had exploded in the second story of N. Owens's store on the corner of Person and Dick streets, but the flames were quickly extinguished, and no damage was done. The steam fire-engine and company were ready for action in remarkably quick time, the horses being harnessed and hitched to the pole in four minutes after the alarm.

The Centennial Poet.

A valued friend of the OBSERVER, writing to us on the subject of the duty with which the committee is charged, of inviting some one to compose an ode for the Centennial Celebration, has the following:

Permit me to suggest as a suitable poet laureate of the November Centennial ceremonies Mr. Thos. Watts Harrington, of the county of Harnett. I doubt if a more gifted "child of the muse" of all the men and women of the present generation "presses the Olympic dust" in the arena of rythmic fancy.

A Strange Accident.

On the excursion train to the circus at Selma last Monday, one of the passengers, sitting at the rear of the train, let his little boy fall from his arms. The little fellow's foot caught on the platform, but the shoe was finally wrenched off as he was dragged along, head downward, and he fell on the track. If an instant he was on his feet, slipped on his shoe, and tugged after the train, which was of course stopped, and he was taken on board with many congratulations.

Thriving Dunn.

Mr. Geo. H. Haigh, who spent Monday last at Dunn in the transaction of business, gives us some interesting facts regarding that bee-hive on the Wilson Short-Cut R. R. New buildings are erecting there "continually constant," and Messrs. Young Bros. are now putting up a fine brick structure. The town has already this season received 400 bales of cotton; and, as it has a fine country tributary to it, the general trade of the section is good. Everybody seems to have something to do, and to go at it with industry and zeal.

Piscatorial.

Capt. J. W. Fry, General Superintendent of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railwayt went down in his special car to Morehead City one day last week, accompanied by a party of ladies and gentlemen, to lay in his annual fall and winter supply of fish.

A remarkable fact is related of Capt Fry, stamping him sui generis among fishermen: he is strictly truthful, never having any stories to tell on his return from one of his piscatorial expeditions. He simply shows you the salt and the barrels—and asks you to breakfast.

North State Improvement Company.

At the meeting of the stockholders of the North State Improvement Company, held at Greensboro yesterday, the old officers were reelected—Jno. D. Williams, President; Julius A. Gray, Vice-President; W. H. McFarland, Secretary and Treasurer—and the old Board of Directors, except Mr. Fulton, of Mt. Airy, in place of C. P. Stokes, of Richmond, Va. Mr. R. T. Gray, of Raleigh, was elected General Counsel of the company.

At a meeting subsequently held by the Board of Directors of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway Company, the sum of $250 was voted in aid of the Fayetteville Centennial.

Your shoulders to the wheel and let's make the Centennial Celebration here in November such a success as will call forth the admiration of succeeding generations one hundred years hence.

Quwhiffle's Old People.

The interesting facts furnished to us last week by Mr. John McDuffie, with regard to the ages of Mr. John Campbell and Joe McKethan, colored, attracted a good deal of attention, and certain of our readers have met us with something like a smile of incredulity, as if they thought so much antiquity for these good people of Quwhiffle rather apochryphal.

Speaking of this afterwards to Mr. McDuffie—having found him sitting in his office in a musing mood, thoughtfully tapping his patent-leather boot with a natty gold-headed cane, and blowing an imaginary speck of dust from his Prince Albert coat, while his high silk hat was tilted away back from his forehead—a twinkle came into his eye; and, drawing his diminutive form up to its full height, he said: "Joe McKethan's age is well-authenticated in all his neighborhood, and as for Mr. Campbell—he is really a great deal older than was stated; but, being a bachelor, and going a great deal into ladies' society, he does not wish to show for what he is."

Seriously, they are two very old men—doubtless fully as old as represented—and they should have a prominent pliace in the doings of the great November celebration, for if they are not entitled to a front seat in a Centennial demonstration we do not know who are.

Improvements on the River.

The following, taken from the Wilmington Star of the 28th ult., detailing the operations of Capt. Flowers, of this city, will be noted with interest by our readers:

Capt. Flowers, who is in charge of the working force engaged in the improvement of the Cape Fear River between Wilmington and Fayetteville, arrived here late yesterday afternoon with the steam-launch W. G. Wright and the steam-hoister Cyclops, used for pulling snags and tree-stumps from the bed of the river. Capt. Flowers will go up the river to-day with the steam-launch, and next week the working force will begin the construction of stone jetties which are to be put in at Elizabetown, Morehead and Melvin Shoals.

The funds appropriated by the Government for the improvement of the upper Cape Fear are nearly exhausted, and as most of the obstructions in the river have been removed, the money available will be expended in building the jetties mentioned. Capt. Chas. Humphreys is the resident engineer in charge of the work at Fayetteville, under direction of Capt. W. H. Bixby, U. S. Engineer.

Please Report at Once.

It is especially desirable that the committee having that matter in charge shall know as soon as possible what they may count on in the way of accommodation in board and lodging for Centennial visitors. We doubt not that nearly all our people intend to do all in their power to care for the coming guests, but they do not yet seem to appreciate the necessity of making known their capacity to entertain visitors to the committee.

Please report without delay to Mr. H. I. McDuffie, Chairman of the Committee on Intelligence and Registration, the number you can lodge; the number you can board; the price for lodging; the price for table board; the price for board and lodging. Thus the matter will be systematized, and the committee will know how to assign quarters to visitors.

Had Seen It Once.

Two of the jeunesse doree were out for a ride last Sunday afternoon, and whirled down Railroad street, drawing up on the crest of the hill overlooking the work of construction of the railway iron bridge across the Cape Fear. Gazing down into the muddy waters of the river lashing the sides of the massive piers, one of the young men said to the other:—

"Did you ever see a coffer-dam?"

"Well, y-e-s," said his companion, hesitatingly, "I did once. My father had an old cow which got into the lot where they were making cider, and she ate so many of the hard, green apples piled against the press that I thought she'd cough her [illegible] head off!"

Mexican Veterans.

A reunion of the Mexican Veterans will be held here during the approaching Centennial Celebration, and all surviving soldiers who can attend are requested to send their names to Mr. Z. B. Newton, of this city, who will look after quarters for them. Ex-President Davis is himself a member of the veteran band, and will probably be the ranking officer present, though we do not know that he will come prepared to take command.

Invitation from the State Capital.

His Excellency Gov. Fowle has extended an invitation to ex-President Davis to visit Raleigh during his stay in North Carolina in November next; and the people of the capital city of the State promise Mr. Davis such a welcome as happens to a man but once in a lifetime.

The Semi-Weekly Observer.

The getting in of new body and display type, and the time necessarily consumed in arranging them in cases, etc., have unavoidably delayed the issuance of the Semi-Weekly edition of the OBSERVER. Our patrons may look for it next Tuesday.

Further Accommodations.

An additional side-track has been laid in the old "Curtis field," just south of the freight depot of the Cape Fear & Yadkin Valley Railway, to accommodate the increasing number of trains accumulating every day.

Marriage Licenses.

The Register of Deeds, Mr. H. L. Hall, has issued only 7 marriage licenses during the month of September—3 whites and 4 colored.

Closed.

A protracted meeting closed at Mt. Pisgah last Sunday, and the ordinance of baptism was administered to five persons by Rev. E. J. Edwards.

Off for Greensboro.

By the up-train Messrs. E. J. Lilly, Jno M. Rose and Geo. M. Rose left on Tuesday morning for Greensboro. to attend the meeting of the Directors of the North State Improvement Company, of which Mr. Williams is President.

Religious Notes.

Rev. W. B. Oliver, the new pastor of the Baptist Church, assumes his charge this week, and will preach his first regular sermon next Sunday morning. The public are cordially invited to attend.

Reports from Presbytery at St. Paul's last week are to the effect that the attendance was large and the proceedings of even more than ordinary interest.

At the union Sunday School meeting at McPherson's Church last Sunday afternoon four schools were well represented, the pupils being reviewed by Mr. Geo. P. McNeill in the lessons of the past six months, from the Book of Samuel in the Old Testament. They acquitted themselves very creditably, and the exercises were enhanced in interest by good music.

Abstracting Beef, He Came to Grief.

A white man giving his name as Johnson (with perhaps several aliases), who used to live at Beaver Creek, but now hails from about Dunn, Harnett county, made his appearance in Market Square early on Monday morning last, and offered to sell to Mr. Johnson, at Tomlinson's stall, a fine steer for $13.00. The cautious butcher expressed a willingness to take the beef, deferring payment until the arrival of Mr. Tomlinson. In the meantime, a dispatch was received from Dunn by the chief of police here, describing the stolen property, and asking that the steer and man having it in possession be held till the arrival of an officer from Harnett county. Capt. Flowers arrested Johnson in Beasley's store on Hay street, where he was examining and pricing certain articles of jewelry. The alleged cattle-lifter is too good-looking a man to be engaged in such a nefarious business.

Remember the Meeting.

By all means bear in mind the call issued by Col. W. S. Cook for a joint meeting of the magistrates and commissioners of Cumberland county, to be held in the court-house next Monday, 7th inst. This meeting will be of vital importance to the property-owners of the county, as it is to take into consideration measures for securing the court records from loss by fire, and it is very desirable that there be a full attendance.

We have no advice to give this representative body of citizens, believing that their good sense and sound judgment may be depended upon to accomplish the great object in view with prudence and discretion. Safety must be in some way devised, without delay, for the books and papers of the county offices; and, in formulating a plan for guaranteeing this safety, due regard must be preserved for the present financial condition of the county, which imperatively demands economy in the administration of its affairs.

Your Attention, Please.

"What's the matter with the Centennial," anyhow? Oh, it's all right, and so are Messrs. Royall & Borden, as you will find by reference to their new double column advertisement on the 1st page.

Messrs. W. L. Manning & Co. have in store all kinds of desirable groceries and household supplies, with "Tom Johnson behind the counter" to meet the wants of customers.

Col. Chas. Haigh offers to the trade and retail buyers excellent belting and lace leather.

If you have business with the County Board of Education read the notice of Mr. N. A. Sinclair, and govern yourself accordingly.

Country merchants and local customers will learn something to their advantage by reading the attractive advertisement of Mr. D. A. McMillan.

Mr. Geo. Brandt has been "40 years in the harness," and the attractions and bargains he offers customers are no whit less than when he first took the track.

"The millions" can find millinery and notions at Mr. M. E. Dye's at the lowest cash prices.

Mr. Jno. M. Roddick makes his announcement of a big store full of the choicest goods for all kinds of customers—"and all for cash."

Mr. Chas. G. Cain, Clerk of the Superior Court, gives notice of the "Fayetteville Water-Works and Improvement Company."

Messrs. Novitzky & Bro., the "Fayetteville Clothiers," have received their last installment of fall and winter clothing; and parents looking out for just the thing in school suits, and the trade in general in search of bargains, would do well to read their advertisement.

The attention of the stockholders of the Fayetteville Real Estate Agency is called to an important notice of meeting on Tuesday evening next in the Town Hall.

"Cold weather is not now far off," and the Fayetteville Ice and Coal Company will make you comfortable with supplies of coal at low rates.

Mr. W. N. Tillinghast is offering some very attractive things to country merchants.

Mr. H. McD. Robinson offers the very desirable "Guthrie office" for rent.

The John H. McGowan Co., Richmond, Va., offer valuable and improved machinery in another column.

Messrs. E. L. & A. J. Pemberton have about everything at their handsome new book-store that could be needed or fancied.

If you are at all concerned in the matter, we would advise you to "read, mark and inwardly digest" Mr. B. R. Taylor's tax notice.

DIED

UNDERWOOD.—On Tuesday, 1st inst., at 10 A. M., DRVEREUX HAIGH, infant son of J. B. and S. C. Underwood. The funeral services took place yesterday morning from St. John's Church.

SLEEP AND DEATH.

Oh gentle Sleep, who oft hast cradled me
In weary hours;
Hast laid thy still palm on my heated brow
And bound thereon, when I was sad as now,
The silent poppy flowers!

Thou canst not aid me here; but there is One,
Brother of thine,
Who holds a medicine that will ease all pain;
Tell him, I pray thee, straightway, I would fain
Be eased of mine.

Blessings on thee,
Thou guardian angel of the lost child, Time;
All sorrowing hearts
Beat thanks to thee, but look with longing eye
To where thy brother's kinder ministry
The lax cord parts.

Paler than thou,
Elder and more beautiful is he,
And on his brow
Sits the high calm that warrants all redress;
Abiding home to hearts all shelterless
Will he allow.

Go, gentle Sleep,
Tell him the woes of time come thick and fast;
Tell him we lie
Within the shadow of the ebon gate,
And for the music of the opening wait,
Longing to die.

How to Keep Sweet Potatoes.

For the benefit of your readers, I give you my experience, extending over twenty years, in preserving sweet potatoes. When a small boy, I noticed that my father, who had a costly cellar, never had potatoes after Christmas, and that he had to buy his plantings from neighbor Tom Phillips. I well remember swapping biscuits for potatoes with the Phillips children at school in March and April. From this neighbor I learned how to keep sweet potatoes.

Dig after the first signs of frost are on the vines. Don't be in a hurry about it. Take plenty of time; rather than worry about getting them in on the same day, let them stay in the patch all night in small piles, putting vines over them to keep the frost or heavy dew off. Store one or two months' supply in cellar, putting up the remainder to keep as follows:

Throw up a foundation of earth at least eighteen inches deep, inclosing space sufficient to hold twenty-five bushels of potatoes or less, never more, to the hill. On this foundation should be spread dry pine straw at least six inches deep. After the potatoes have been carefully piled on, cover with four or five inches of dry pine straw; on this place corn-stalks vertically, making them fit snug and close together, and lapping at the apex of the hill, one layer all around being sufficient. Then cover carefully with earth to the depth of three inches until the weather gets colder, when another layer may be put on.

This potato-house is proof against almost any degree of cold, and will keep its contents sound clear through winter on into spring.

Feeding Dairy Cows.

American Dairyman.]

Do not forget the wise rule about feeding dairy cows—that it requires just so much to sustain the waste of nature called the "support" of the cow before you have any right to expect a profitable return. After you pass that point you may expect the cow to begin to pay and increase the returns as the feed increases, but after you pass a certain point the profit begins to decrease until you are feeding so much as to actually injure the cow, at the same time killing the profits.

To tell just when you have reached or passed these points is the gift of the good dairyman, but by careful watching and repeated experiments any man can tell how much it will pay to feed any cow in the herd. The great danger is that he will jump to the conclusion that he knows all about it before he has begun to find out anything, for the fact is that all cows improve greatly as they become accustomed to heavy rations, provided, of course, the feed is not so heavy as to break them down; but some will improve much faster than others, and actual measuring of both feed and milk is the correct way to find out what the cow is doing. If you are weighing feed weigh it dry, if you can, for it is hard to get exactly the same amount of water in feed twice.

Agricultural and Industrial Fairs.

Mr. P. M. Wilson, State Immigration Agent, furnishes the following list of fairs to be held throughout the State during the fall:

Cabarrus County Agricultural and Mechanical Association, Oct. 14—H. C. McAllister, President; H. T. J. Ludwig, Secretary.

Alamance Fair Association, Oct. 9, 10, 11—Walter L. Holt, President; S. H. Webb, Secretary.

North Carolina State Fair, Oct. 14 to 19—W. G. Upchurch, President; P. M. Wilson, Secretary.

Eastern Carolina Fair Association, October 22 to 24—E. M. Robinson, President; T. H. Bain, Secretary.

Roanoke and Tar River Agricultural Fair, Oct. 30 -T. L. Emory, President; W. W. Hall, Secretary.

Rocky Mount Agricultural and Mechanical Association, Nov. 13 to 15—B. H. Bunn, President; J. R. Underwood, Secretary.

Cumberland County Agricultural Association, Nov. 20 to 22—Walter Watson, President; W. A. Tillinghast, Secretary.

Sampson County Agricultural Association, Dec. 4th, 5th and 6th.

The Sirloin.

It is said that on one occasion one of the Kings of England, after eating that part of the beef known as loin, was so much pleased with it that he asked what part of the beef it was, and when informed that it was the loin, he declared that he had knighted many men for their distinguished services to himself, but none of them had occasioned him so much pleasure as the loin of the beef, and he therefore determined to confer knighthood upon it, and with many elaborate ceremonies he carried out his resolve. Ever since then the loin of the beef has been known as *Sir*loin.

A Young Girl's Grief

at seeing her charms of face and form departing, and her health imperiled by functional irregularities, at her critical period of life, was turned to joy and gratitude after a brief self-treatment with Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. It purified and enriched her blood, gave a healthy activity to the kidneys, stomach, bowels and other organs, and her return to robust health speedily followed. It is the only medicine for women, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

Be in Time.

There are always some farmers in every neighborhood who "get left," no matter how favorable for work the season may be. Do not put off the performance of unavoidable tasks until the snow comes, or the frost nips your fingers. Winter is the farmer's season of rest, but the rest has not been earned if autumn has been spent in idleness. Let the close of November find everything in good shape for next year.
